

Cool places to go near St Moritz...

eden project

The Eden Project

A really cool place to go! We love the Rainforest Biome which is hot and steamy – just like going to a jungle. While our parents wander round reading all the information, we're off pretending we're explorers!

www.edenproject.com

Crealy Adventure Park

An amazing adventure park! It's great getting wet on their water rides and scaring ourselves silly on some of the rollercoasters! There are some that our parents let us go on our own. We think it's probably just because they're scared.

www.crealy.co.uk/cornwall

Screech Owl Sanctuary

There's loads to see there, not just owls – they've also got miniature Shetland ponies, meerkats and baby emus, and you can watch some awesome falconry displays. The best bit is going to the hand-tame area, where you can actually touch some of the owls! It's like being at Hogwarts with Harry Potter.

www.screechowl sanctuary.co.uk

Lappa Valley Steam Railway

Going on one of the steam trains at Lappa Valley Steam Railway is totally different to going on a normal boring train. Grandad and Grandma said all the trains were like this when they were young! We love the way the steam shoots out of the chimney in puffs of white smoke and the noise the engine makes. And they've got lots of other cool stuff there, like crazy golf, an amazing maze and a boating lake.

www.lappavalley.co.uk

DairyLand Farm World

We can never decide which animals we like best at DairyLand Farm World, they've got so many to choose from – cows to goats to ferrets! It's fun helping feed the animals and seeing the cows milked. When our parents get tired we leave them in the café while we dash off to the Adventure Zone, which is packed full of incredible slides, climbing nets and ball pools. If only we could live there!

www.dairylandfarmworld.com

Camel Trail

We love going on bike rides, and the Camel Trail is one of our favourites! We don't really know why it's called the Camel Trail, as we haven't seen any camels yet, but we'll keep looking. Dad said he spotted one the other day, but we think he was making it up. It's fun zooming ahead while Mum and Dad lag behind, trying to catch up with us. And one of the best bits is going for ice-cream at the end!

www.destination-cornwall.co.uk/camel-trail.html

01208 862242

minimoritz@stmoritzhotel.co.uk

www.minimoritz.co.uk

